

E2S UPPA Ambassadors grants program, Edition 2019

List of selected candidates (alphabetical order)
According to the decision of the Board of Trustees, on February 15th, 2019

Ambassador	Partner Universities	Project	Perspectives
Buoro Mathieu, CR, MIRA, ECOBIOP	University of California, Berkeley – United States (5 ARWU)	This project aims to produce new knowledge regarding the adaptation of exploited salmon populations (both Atlantic and Pacific salmonids) under climate change and to explore innovative management practices that favor their conservation/resilience using the portfolio approach	Develop an international collaboration: - explore mobility opportunities, - organise seminars, - a master student will be dedicated to the development of this project
Guessab Allal, PR, IPRA, LMAP	Novosibirsk State University - Russia (401-500 ARWU)	A cooperation agreement has been signed between the University of Pau and Pays de l'Adour and Novosibirsk State University, Russia. The most important project's is to implement this agreement and reinforce the existing collaboration.	- Joint scientific publications, - Exchange of Masters and PhD students, - joint research activities
Save Maud, DR, IPREM, CNRS	Western Sydney University - Australia (401-500 ARWU)	The proposed activity are: extensive research collaboration on the design of advanced polymer materials, training of PhD students both at UPPA and WSU in macromolecular engineering and advanced characterisation methods, promote future international mobility for Master/PhD students	- Establish long-term productive collaboration, - PhD students training, - Promotion of future international mobility for Master, Engineers and PhD students

E2S UPPA Executive Director,

Gilles Pijaudier-Cabot